How you can help your child at home...

1. Daily reading – listen to your child read and share books with them
2. Revise number bonds and tables daily – incorporate into everyday activities
3. Encourage opportunities for writing – shopping lists, cards, notes, diaries
4. Ensure your child gets lots of exercise

Our context for learning this term is Changing Cardiff. Over the course of the topic, we will be undertaking the following learning activities Mathematics & Numeracy – timelines, population and trade/industry graphs, Languages, Literacy & Communication – reading, researching and writing biographies Humanities – researching child labour, housing and living conditions, employment, education; geography of Cardiff; Educational Visit Health & Wellbeing – diet years ago; children's rights; levels of health and hygiene; healthy relationships and collaborative working Science & Technology – the organs and bones of the body – how does your job affect your health

Expressive Arts – line drawings, collage, Christmas concert

We would love to hear from any parents who could contribute to our topic, Changing Cardiff. Could you come in and share your knowledge and experiences with us?
